

ArtComplex

The idea behind pop-up exhibits is to bring art to areas that need it by utilizing non-traditional venues as temporary gallery space. Future incarnations of ArtComplex may or may not take place at the same location, and there is an open invitation to interested property owners to make art possible in their area by partnering with ArtComplex on the organization's website.

<http://artcomplex.popslice.com/>

Bring art to the neighborhood

Identify possible venues, abandoned buildings, buildings recently sold, vacated

560 29th Street and Telegraph Ave in Oakland

The location is a former dental office

Partnerships

Artist

Property Owners

Curators

Managers

Insurance security of space

Identify artist

Invite artist to make proposals, invite artist to recommend additional artist

Artist propose ideas for rooms in the space

Publicity

arts real estate community

The ArtComplex will not only bring art to the repurposed dental office, but it will make that art economically accessible to a variety of people due to the low suggested donation for the exhibit of just one dollar.

Activate space with performance

During the exhibition artists will improvise performances for exhibit visitors whenever the guests enter any of the dozen rooms dedicated to these artists

